Boards Vote Unofficial Approval

AN EAST Stroudsburg Area School jointure was approved unofficially last night. It involves that borough, Smithfield, Middle Smithfield, Price, Porter and Lehman Townships.

Representation on a joint committee had been the last unresolved issue. That issue was decided last night. All six boards must still approve the jointure agreement formally before it goes into effect.

Last night's meeting was held at Smithfield. The vote which gave informal approval to a jointure agreement came at 10:53 p.m. It was the seventh vote taken during the meeting.

Under terms of the proposal the six districts would set up a 32-member joint committee for one year. At the end of this first year the committee would be reduced to nine members — four from East Stroudsburg, one each from the other six districts.

The successful proposal was a compromise. It grew out of a series of other suggestions. The first of these was presented by Tighman Courtwright, Middle Smithfield, who called for a nine-man committee on the four to one each basis with a two-thirds majority vote needed for action.

This was ruled out because the two-thirds majority stipulation is not in keeping with the school code provisions for jointure, solicitor Alex Bensinger told the group. Smithfield's Raymond Hartman then suggested that all members of all boards sit on the joint committee — a 32-member committee. Two boards—East Stroudsburg and Price—voted against this; the others said yes.

Robert Wright, East Stroudsburg, asked the boards to consider another proposal. It was this: That the full 32 members be obligated to meet each month but that voting actually be done by a nine-member committee set up on the ratio suggested by Middle Smithfield.

Both Smithfield and Middle Smithfield voted against this proposal; the rest voted for it.

Hartman then suggested that a full 32-member committee be set up for the full three years covered by the initial joint agreement. A vote showed East Stroudsburg to be the lone dissenter.

Wright then submitted the successful proposal. But it was defeated the first time around by Smithfield's dissenting voice. G. Willard Stedler, Smithfield board member, asked that the board vote on a proposal to keep the full joint committee alive for two years, then revert to nine men. East Stroudsburg voted "no" to this; the rest voted "yes."

Showing signs of weariness from discussion, the board members appeared ready to call it a night. But a final voice was still to be heard.

William Laubner, Lehman Township, member of an outlying district which—like Porter and Price—has consistently gone along with most proposals submitted, asked chairman Carl Secor to take another roll call vote on the second proposal submitted by Robert Wright.

Secor reviewed the previous voting. Then the vote began. Secor called the roll. East Stroudsburg? Yes. Lehman Township? Yes. Middle Smithfield? Yes. Porter? Yes. Price? Yes. Smithfield?

There was a moment's pause. Then Ray Hartman asked for a few minutes to discuss the proposal again with members of his board.

As usual, amid all the discussion and amiable maneuvering at previous meetings, laughter greeted the request for a brief caucus. As Smithfield board began its discussion, other voices arose around the room.

Three minutes later, Hartman signaled to Secor. The chairman tapped lightly on an ashtray with the bowl of his pipe. The room fell silent.

"Smithfield is ready to vote on the proposal. Is that right, Ray?" Secor asked.

"Smithfield votes yes," Hartman said.

Great Britain's Labor Party Kicks Leftist Bevan Out Of Ranks For Challenging Attlee

LONDON, March 16 (AP)—Britain's divided Labor party blotted the Laborite brand off rebel Aneurin Bevan so far as his career in Parliament is concerned and turned him loose as a political maverick today.

Bevan's members of Parliament kicked the fiery, 57-year-old leftist out of their ranks by a vote of 141-112 for challenging the moderate leadership of former Prime Minister Clement R. Attlee over the past three years.

The final breach came two weeks ago when Bevan led 57 MPs, including assorted pacifists, in bucking rigid party voting discipline in the House of Commons on the hydrogen bomb issue.

Bevan demanded party support of a move to bar Britain from ever using the H-bomb except in retaliation against an H-bomb attack. Attlee refused. Then the Bevan bloc abstained from a vote on a Labor party motion to censure Prime Minister Churchill's government for its general handling of the defense program.

Bevan's penalty—life as an independent barred from parliamentary party councils—is considerably grimmer under the British system than in the United States, whose foreign policies he has often attacked.

He is still a Laborite outside Parliament. A Moderate move to strip him of even that status is subject to action by the National Executive Committee, which Attlee controls. It meets next Wednesday.

Britons heard conflicting reports as to whether Bevan will ever ask reinstatement. He would have to petition to be taken back and pledge to obey orders to return. He was thrown out once before, on the eve of World War II, but got back in the party's good graces.

The expulsion of this often brilliant, usually controversial and seldom contrite Welshman summoned up fog of doubt not only about Bevan's future, but about the future of the party.

Witnesses Tell Of Mixup, Delay

WASHINGTON, March 16 (AP)—Army witnesses told today of months of mixup and delay which preceded the discharge of Irving Peress.

Sen. McClellan (D-Ark) called it "inexcusable."

McClellan is chairman of the Senate Investigations subcommittee, now conducting the fourth inquiry into circumstances around Peress' promotion to major and subsequent honorable discharge.

Peress is the New York dentist who refused to tell Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis) if he was a Communist. He claimed protection of the Fifth Amendment against saying things which might be incriminating.

Lenten Meditation

By Joan Armitage
Member, Cherry Valley Methodist Church

My minister asked what Lent meant to me. I paused to meditate, then realized it is a time when we should give much thought to the great sacrifice Jesus made for us. A time when it is our turn to sacrifice something to show our faith and love for Him.

Through His death upon the Cross for our sins and His resurrection, we have the assurance of life beyond the grave. To show our appreciation for His great love for us, we should voluntarily make sacrifices in order to prepare ourselves for greater service to our fellowmen and our Church throughout the year ahead of us.

Lent is a time when we may draw nearer to Christ through prayer and sacrifice, and thus receive renewed spiritual strength, to face the problems of our daily lives.

U.S. To Use A-Weapons Says President

WASHINGTON, March 16 (AP)—President Eisenhower declared today that "of course" the United States will use atomic weapons—against military targets—in event of war.

Under the law, the President alone must decide whether to use such weapons.

"Now, in any combat where these things can be used on strictly military targets and for strictly military purposes," Eisenhower told a news conference, "I see no reason why they shouldn't be used just exactly as you would use a bullet or anything else."

"I believe the great question about these things comes when you begin to get into those areas where you cannot make sure that you are operating merely against military targets. But with that one qualification, I would say, yes, of course, they would be used."

Eisenhower thus put his support behind Secretary of State Dulles. Dulles said yesterday he assumes tactical nuclear weapons, such as small bombs and artillery projectiles, would be employed in any major military action anywhere in the world. He emphasized he was speaking of small weapons that could hit military targets with precision without endangering civilian areas.

The tandem statements by the secretary and the President appeared designed to impress upon an uneasy world and the Chinese Communists that:

Any major military action is likely to touch off atomic warfare. Such a war need not inevitably involve use of hydrogen bombs capable of mass destruction of vast areas.

In response to questions, Eisenhower covered these additional subjects:

Politics—The Republican party, he said, will be strong enough "to win with anybody worthy of a place" on the ticket in 1956 if it produces "fine programs for the benefit of all America, and real work in putting them over."

The President had proposed a year's moratorium on second term feelers two weeks ago. But he chortled at a question whether he agrees "with Vice President Nixon that the Republican party is not strong enough to win reelection in 1956 without you."

He said he agrees the party needs strength and recruits. But as usual he made no commitments on 1956.

Senate Asked To Intervene For Bridge

HARRISBURG, March 16 (AP)—The Senate was asked tonight to urge the Delaware River Joint Toll Bridge Commission to reconsider proposed demolition of the Delaware Upper Mount Bethel Bridge, near Portland, Northampton County.

A resolution introduced by Sens. Joseph J. Yosko (D-Northampton) and William Z. Scott (R-Carbon) also would have the State Highways Department determine the cost of repairing the bridge and restoring it to top condition. The resolution noted that the commission had agreed to demolish the 733-foot long span in order to remove competition from new toll bridges across the Delaware River in the same region.

"Litigation is now pending in the U. S. Supreme Court to determine the propriety of this agreement," the resolution says.

It termed closing of the bridge a "great economic waste" to the Commonwealth.

Yosko said a similar resolution will be introduced in the House next week.

The bridge was built in 1896 as a railroad bridge. It was purchased by the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in 1932 at a cost of $275,000, and converted into a free highway bridge. Since that time it has been heavily traveled.

Income Tax Dispute Left To Committee

WASHINGTON, March 16 (AP)—House Republican leaders voiced strong confidence today that a Democratic drive to cut everybody's income taxes next year is all but beaten.

They commented as the battle over the issue shifted from House and Senate floors to a 10-man Senate-House Conference Committee.

The committee must decide the next step in the politically important scrap.

The House passed a bill to cut income taxes $20 for each taxpayer and each dependent—$100 for a family of five—starting next Jan. 1. The same bill would postpone for one year about three billion dollars in annual corporation and excise tax cuts now set for April 1, just 15 days away.

The Senate yesterday voted 61-22 against the $20 per person tax cut. It passed a bill merely extending the corporation and excise taxes—just what President Eisenhower has urged. The Senate defeated a milder Democratic "compromise" tax cut 56-44.

"That action drew a one-word comment from President Eisenhower at his news conference today: 'Hurrah!'"

House Republican Leader Martin (Glass) and Deputy GOP Leader Halleck (Ind) joined in confident predictions the conference committee eventually will accept the Senate tax bill, without any income tax cut.

Martin declared that even if the conference committee approves a tax cut, Republicans now have the votes to defeat it on the House floor.

Pat Ward Says Address Books Kept By Jelke

NEW YORK, March 16 (AP)—Two little address books — twin catalogues of her bygone sins of the flesh—today unlocked the floodgates on call girl Pat Ward's Catechism clientele.

She testified she and Mickey Jelke compiled the directories—a black one for him and a red one for her—when he was launching her on a love for sale career in 1951 and 1952. He is being retried as a procurer.

The names of wealthy men gushed one upon another from the crimson lips of the wan, jittery Miss Ward as she was guided down the alphabetical lists by Asst. Dist. Atty. Anthony J. Liebler.

Not all the men listed took advantage of Miss Ward's readily available charms. Some, she testified, were merely suggested prospects whom she never saw. But many were free spending playboys to whom she sold herself.

In her testimony, Miss Ward described how Jelke converted his one-bedroom apartment into a cozy bordello for Catechism playboys.

Dems Claim Early Victory On Idle Pay

HARRISBURG, Wednesday March 17 (AP)—The Senate entered into new debate early today in a midnight session devoted to action on the administration's jobless benefits plan.

Democratic prospects for passing the bill were poor in the face of united Republican opposition and despite a series of preliminary Democratic victories gained by Lt. Gov. Roy E. Furman casting his tie-breaking vote three times.

A drama-packed day-long Senate session saw the Democratic leadership squeeze out every parliamentary advantage possible in the absence of two hospitalized Republican senators.

Senate Republicans however, invoked the unit rule for the first time this session to form a united front against the administration bill which features a $5 a weekly boost in benefits and a 15 per cent increase in employer taxes.

Without Republican help, Democrats cannot hope to pass the bill. The present lineup is 24-24, but 26 votes are needed for final passage.

The midnight vote was called to meet a constitutional requirement that a bill must be approved on three separate legislative days.

But as the day's session ended, Democrats were victorious over Republicans in:

1. Knocking out a series of GOP amendments from the administration measure and restoring it to the form passed by the house five weeks ago.

2. Placing the Senate on record as favoring elimination of that part of a peril point formula in the present law which provides for an automatic cut March 31 in maximum weekly jobless benefits from $30 to $20.

3. Removing from a GOP proposal a companion pledge that the formula also be revised to prevent a March 31 jump in employer payroll taxes to the ceiling of 2.7 per cent. Last year, employer contributions averaged about 1.2 per cent.

Democrats contend their plan would boost employer costs from the 88 millions they paid into the unemployment compensation fund last year to 140 million dollars this year.

The new figure is close to 170 million dollars, say the Republicans who favor the $5 a week boost in benefits but are against increasing employer taxes.

Cities React Slowly To DST Extension Idea

PHILADELPHIA, March 16 (AP)—A majority of the officials of Pennsylvania cities reacted with little enthusiasm today to the news that New York City council has voted to extend daylight saving time this year to Oct. 30 instead of ending it on the last Sunday in September, as previously.

A survey by The Associated Press indicated a "wait-and-see" attitude on the idea. DST starts on April 24 in communities throughout Pennsylvania, as it will in New York City. The closing date is the part in doubt.

Several bills before the State Legislature would require observance of DST on a uniform statewide basis while others provide for statewide standard time observance.

Eagle Suspends Publication, Unable To Meet Pay Demands

NEW YORK, March 16 (AP)—The 114-year-old Brooklyn Eagle, only major daily newspaper published in a community of nearly three million persons, announced today it is through.

Publisher Frank D. Schroth said the paper, born in the brawling era of pre-Civil War journalism, just could not survive if it had to meet the wage demands of 315 striking news and commercial department employees. The strikers belong to the CIO American Newspaper Guild.

"Faced," Schroth said, "with the choice of accepting terms that would have doubled the great financial loss of 1954 or of suspending completely, we have chosen to quit. In these circumstances there is no hope for us. The Newspaper Guild is malignant."

The Pulitzer Prize-winning Eagle suspended publication near-

Territory Given Russia To Assure Its Belligerency

WASHINGTON, March 16 (AP)—The long secret records of the Yalta conference in 1945 were made public tonight.

They disclosed, among other things, that Soviet Marshall Joseph Stalin demanded sweeping concessions from President Roosevelt in the Far East with the argument that he had "to explain to the Soviet people why Russia was entering the war against Japan."

The concessions which he specified included possession of the Kurile Islands and Southern Sakhalin, rights to the port of Dairen and Port Arthur and operation of the Chinese Eastern and South Manchurian railroads.

Roosevelt, anxious to assure Russia's belligerency in the Far East, agreed to the concessions.

Nomination Of Harlan Confirmed

WASHINGTON, March 16 (AP)—The Senate today confirmed President Eisenhower's nomination of Judge John Marshall Harlan to be a justice of the Supreme Court.

Harlan, 55, now a judge of the Second U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New York, was nominated last November to fill the Supreme Court vacancy left by the death of Justice Robert H. Jackson.

The vote was 71-11.

Harlan's nomination was approved after wide-ranging denunciation that hit the court itself and the United Nations.

Nine Democratic senators and two Republicans, Langer of North Dakota and Welker of Idaho, voted against confirmation.

The Democrats, all southerners, were Eastland and Stennis of Mississippi, Ervin of North Carolina, Hill of Alabama, Olin Johnston and Thurmond of South Carolina, McClellan of Arkansas, Russell of Georgia and Smathers of Florida.

Army To Test A-Bomb Near Tank Troops

WASHINGTON, March 16 (AP)—The Army will demonstrate under an actual atomic explosion condition next month its theory that tank troops can survive and fight in nuclear warfare on the battlefield.

It announced today that 55 M48 tanks will stand two miles from a tactical-size bomb burst at the Nevada proving ground, probably sometime about mid-April. In them will be their crews—four men to a tank, or 220 men in all.

The Army said that "for the first time in history, American soldiers will depend on armor protection from an atomic detonation."

The tanks will be deployed along trenches in which several hundred other soldiers huddle for protection. The tank task force will be made up of units from Camp Irwin and Fort Hood, Tex.

The Army said that among other things the experiment "will determine how close to group zero—a point of detonation—it (the tank task force) can maneuver."

The Army already knows, through previous tests with unmanned tanks, what the effect of atomic explosion is at varying distances from a nuclear burst.

Blood Of Twins Replaced Three Times In 2 Days

PITTSBURGH, March 16 (AP)—A hospital disclosed today that the RH blood of twin brothers born 11 days ago was replaced three times in the babies' first 48 hours of life.

Lawrence and Dennis Heidenreich, the 10th and 11th children of Dr. and Mrs. H. Vincent Heidenreich, are believed to be the first twins to survive three complete blood exchanges.

The twins, born March 5, suffered from severe anemia. Their mother's blood had seeped into their systems and was devouring red blood cells.

Physicians reported today the twins are in good condition.

PITTSBURGH, March 16 (AP)—Three small AFL unions removed the last remaining pickets from five department stores today—ending a strike which halted deliveries for nearly 16 months.

Refrigerators Purchased For Schools

RAMSEY AND MOREY school teachers will soon be able to get together for small parties and "toss" thanks to a parents committee.

The parents—members of a public relations committee—found out that neither of the two schools had an icebox for use by teachers. They decided to do something about it.

After first discussing the project with Roger Dunning, elementary principal in Stroudsburg schools, the parents took their proposal before the full Parent Teachers Association of the borough schools. Permission was given for the committee to buy the needed articles.

Yesterday, at a meeting of the committee, it was reported that a small used refrigerator had been purchased for use in each school. Also bought: dishes for 18 people; silverware to serve the same number; and an electric hotplate for each school.

Other items on the agenda at yesterday's meeting were preliminary discussion of report cards and reporting system used in the grade schools. Further discussion of this matter will be carried out later—possibly in April—with Stroud Township and Delaware Water Gap residents taking part in full talks, the committee said.

With formation of the union school district, the committee emphasized, some uniform method of report card marking must be evolved to the satisfaction of all three districts.

Executives Warned To Watch Health

By Frank Carey
Associated Press Science Reporter

WASHINGTON, March 16 (AP)—Watch out, you eager-beaver junior executives, because "your next promotion could kill you."

Dr. Robert Collier Page, president of the Industrial Medical Assn., gave this warning yesterday. Addressing the Advertising Club of Washington, he said all business executives should check up on their emotional and physical capacities and stay within them, even if it means turning down a higher job.

"It is imperative," he said, "for each executive to know what his health is and to learn to live within the budget nature has given him. The issue can never be dodged. Let's face it!"

"Your prospects for the years just ahead are exceptionally promising."

"Expanding industry is hard-pressed to find new leaders. Opportunity for every able man and woman will be spelled out in letters as big as barn doors. That is the promise."

But he added: "Now, the warning. There is a terrible danger hidden in the opportunities of this coming upheaval in business. Unless you are up to the challenge mentally and physically, your next promotion could kill you."

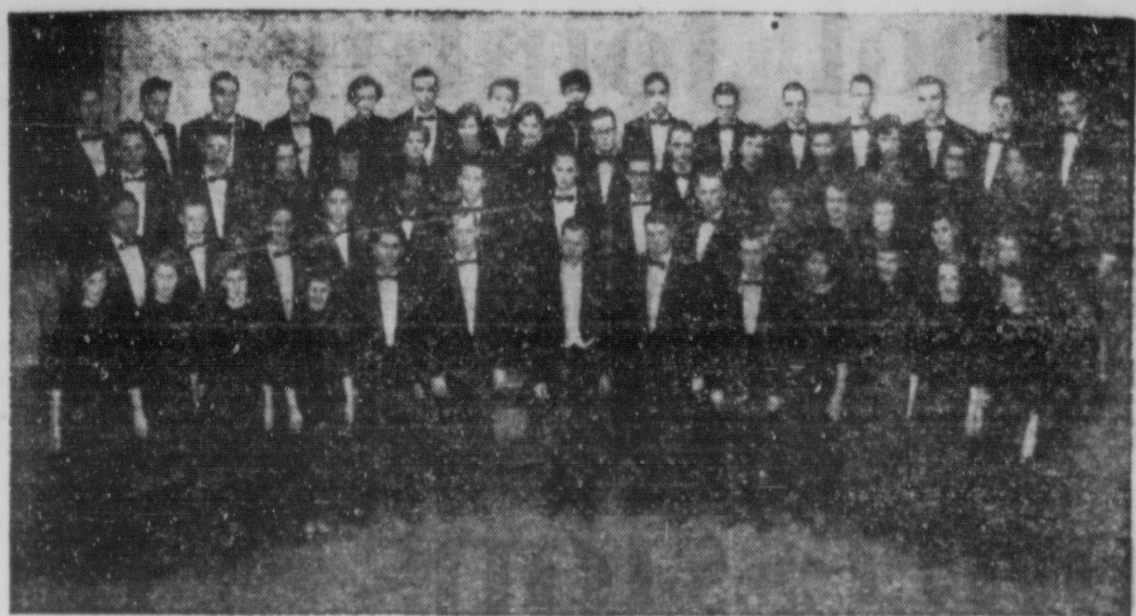

"A bit of honest self-analysis would help everybody," he continued, "and especially the younger, ambitious junior executive. The rule is that promotion is based on what you have done. If you want more of that, and the added responsibility too, a bigger load of both will be good for you if no physical ailment stands in the way. You will expand and grow."

"But most people don't enjoy responsibility. If you don't want it, it is best to recognize it. Promotion, if it adds responsibility, may be your misfortune."

Irrigation Talk Slated

N. H. WOODING, agricultural engineer at Penn State University, will outline the latest information and trends on "Farm Irrigation in Pennsylvania" at a meeting to be held tonight at 8 in the vocational agriculture room of Chestnut Hill School at Brodheadville.

County Agent Arthur E. Ifft announced the meeting had been called due to numerous inquiries about irrigation in Monroe County. He said irrigation has come to the front the past two years due to drought.

Stocks Regain Lost Ground In Two Days

NEW YORK, March 16 (AP)—The stock market advanced today—its second straight recovery move—but the gain lacked vigor.

The market on average, however, in two days more than made up for the severe loss suffered in Monday's major break when the estimated loss in the listed value of securities on the New York Stock Exchange was four billion dollars.

It still is a long way from the peaks established nearly two weeks ago before prices took a steep dive in an extended reaction.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was ahead $1.10 at $155.50. It was up $2.90 yesterday. Race Betting Bill Dead, Says Watkins

HARRISBURG, March 16 (AP)—A Republican senator today wrote off as dead a bi-partisan plan to permit Pennsylvanians to ballot on whether they favored legalizing horse race betting.

Sen. G. Robert Watkins (R-Delaware) said he would move Monday to send the referendum measure back to the Senate Law and Order Committee. He is chairman of the committee and a co-sponsor of the bill.

Watkins told newsmen that "as far as I'm concerned" the bill would be killed in the committee.

Prime reason for his abandoning the fight for passage of the bill, Watkins said, was a difference between Republicans and Democrats on whether the referendum should be held at a primary or general election.

"The Democrats want the referendum in the primary and we want it in November," Watkins said.

"If it's held in a primary, it couldn't be until 1956. Why should we set it up that far ahead?"

The municipal primary this year will be held May 17. Ballot listings closed Monday.

Sen. John H. Dent, Democratic floor leader, said his party would not fight recommitment.

"What's the use of fighting? I'm not going to make it a party issue," Dent said.

The committee approved the bill only last week. Democrats had predicted they would supply 20 to 24 votes for the measure. Watkins said 8 to 10 Republicans had originally favored the plan. To pass a bill a minimum of 26 votes is needed.

In the interim, the Lord's Day Alliance, a church organization, attacked the plan vigorously on the grounds legal pari-mutuel betting would be "sin for taxes."

Gov. George M. Leader also declared his "unalterable opposition" to horse race betting but said he would not veto a referendum bill should the two branches of the Assembly pass it.

Vitamin Kids Smarter Than Those Without

By Alton L. Blakeslee
Science Reporter

NEW YORK, Mar. 16 (AP)—Babies are a bit more intelligent if poorly fed mothers take extra vitamins daily during pregnancy and while nursing, says a scientific study announced today.

The seven-year study covered 2,400 expectant mothers—1,200 in Norfolk and 1,200 in Kentucky—and 1,699 of their children given intelligence tests at age 3 or 4.

Of women taking vitamins, a third got just vitamin C, a third just B-1 or thiamine, and one third got multiple-B vitamins—thiamine, riboflavin and niacinamide, plus iron.

The vitamin kids averaged 3.7 points higher in IQ than the non-vitamin. Statistically, there wasn't significant difference in the apparent higher intelligence from different types of vitamin pills.

The multiple-B vitamins looked "more effective, but more study is needed to check this, the study said."

Dewey Hopeful Eisenhower Will Seek New Term

WASHINGTON, March 16 (AP)—Former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York said today he confidently hopes President Eisenhower will run again next year.

Dewey made the statement to newsmen in response to questions after he had paid a brief call on the President. He did not say what he discussed with the President, adding he just dropped in to say hello.

Dewey said he is here for a dinner Vice President Nixon is giving for Prime Minister Menzies of Australia.

Dewey was asked who was going to line up the New York Republican delegation to the 1956 GOP National Convention.

He replied he did not think that would be necessary because "if the President is going to run that would be no problem."

Lawler Names Scranton Man To $10,260 Job

HARRISBURG, March 16 (AP)—Joseph J. Lawler, state highways secretary, today appointed Robert Farley, Scranton, assistant chief highway engineer at a salary of $10,260 a year.

Farley, whose headquarters will be in Harrisburg, replaces N. A. Staples, Clearfield, who resigned several months ago.

Prior to his appointment, Farley was a civilian employee of the U. S. Army Engineers and served as chief of construction and zone engineer in the Pacific Northwest and Alaska.

From 1941-1946 Farley served as a major in the Army Engineers.

Although the United States as a whole has gained population rapidly since 1950, West Virginia has lost population.

Ike Believes Stock Market Conduct Okay

WASHINGTON, March 16 (AP)—President Eisenhower said today the conduct of the stock market appears very satisfactory on the whole, and any group investigating it "must proceed with great caution."

He quickly added, however, that so far as he knows the investigation by the Senate Banking Committee under Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark.) is being conducted with caution.

He said he had "no opinion whatsoever" as to whether the inquiry had contributed to a decline in stock prices.

Asked for his reaction to the chief executive's news conference remarks, Fulbright said brusquely:

"I don't want to comment on that."

The stock market, which had been rising for 18 months, declined sharply after the Fulbright inquiry began, but has been recovering in the last two days. Today it advanced briskly, though late profit-taking cut some of the maximum gains.

Former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, a White House caller today, was asked by reporters whether he thought the Senate inquiry had been responsible for the market break.

"It's difficult to believe it was a coincidence," Dewey said.

J. A. Livingston, financial editor of the Philadelphia Bulletin, a witness today, told the committee its inquiry is "pretty good insurance against a crash."

Guildsmen, led by Kaufman, walked out in 1937 when their union was in its infancy. The strike lasted three months, but the paper continued publication and until last Jan. 28 had never missed an edition, even when labor troubles shut down other New York dailies.

This time the Eagle suspended because members of eight of its 10 unions refused to cross the Guild's picket line.

The paper had 630 employees, according to the publisher, and 130,000 daily circulation and 165,000 on Sundays.

Isaac Van Anden, a New York printer and publisher, founded the "Brooklyn Eagle and Queens County Democrat" in 1841.

The Eagle was backed as a purely party organ by a group of Brooklyn Democrats, in opposition to two Whig dailies, and was to have been discontinued after the election. But Van Anden continued it and in 1842 bought it out for $1,500. He cut the name to Brooklyn Eagle in 1850.

Schroth did not say what would become of the Eagle's physical assets.

In 1938 Schroth sold the Scranton (Pa.) Tribune in a merger after four years as its editor and publisher and acquired control of the Eagle. A native of Trenton, N.J., he had been associate editor and general manager of the Trenton (N.J.) Times Newspapers before going to Scranton.

In Oct. 1939, the Eagle was adjudged bankrupt. But publication continued. It was put up for sale as a going concern by a referee in bankruptcy. Schroth bid $350,000 for the paper and got it in January, 1940.

The issues in dispute with the Guild when Schroth announced permanent suspension were the union's demands for a $5.80 weekly pay increase, spread over two years, and improvements in vacation and severance pay provisions.

The Guild wage demand was similar to that obtained from Manhattan newspapers. Schroth offered $2.40 a week over two years, and said he would accept arbitration of the entire contract. The Guild insisted arbitration be limited to the three issues.

Before the strike, the Eagle's wage minimums ranged from $47.50 for copy boys to $131.50 for experienced reporters and photographers.

There is now only one other daily newspaper in Brooklyn, a small one, published in Coney Island. It is called the Brooklyn Daily. Its publisher, Sidney Klass, announced today it hopes to expand coverage to "fill the breach" left by the Eagle's suspension.

There is no better time to choose that long talked of memorial than now while all concerned are here to give it careful thought.

Military Pay Raise

Congress now appears almost certain to raise the pay of men who stay in the Armed Services beyond the two-year minimum. The almost unanimous vote by which the pay raiser passed the House is testimony to its need.

Re-enlistments in the Army, Navy and even the Air Force have been falling off at an alarming rate. The cost of one man's training, depending on his skills and position, runs from $3200 to as much as $275,000.

This is an incentive program. If we are compelled, as we are, to maintain a strong military force, we cannot do it on a permanent basis by mere compulsion. That isn't our way. The alternative is incentive money.

In the long run, it should pay off. Every man who can be kept in the Armed Forces, after he has been trained, is another man who doesn't have to be trained from scratch. It is a sensible and justifiable attempt to solve a real problem.

There is only one catch in it. This pay raiser will add about 750 million dollars to the Government's annual expense. That means, in the present situation, a big addition to the deficit.

To complete the job, Congress now should find the money—by raising revenues or by making economies elsewhere. That is simple justice for taxpaying generations to come, who already are overloaded with debts we have contracted.

Juvenile Decency

Out in Chicago this past weekend, 30,000 teenagers took over the spotlight that a minority of their youthful contemporaries have had almost to themselves.

The theme of the big rally was pitched entirely to the assorted antics and law-breaking of this minority of boys and girls in their teens and early 20s.

The idea for the mass meeting originated with the Chicago teen-agers themselves. The nationwide preoccupation with juvenile delinquency has carried over to them, too. They have a very personal stake in it.

This isn't to say there is no juvenile delinquency problem. There is. It's rightfully a cause for concern, and study, and constructive action. But there's too much tendency in this nation dominated by superlatives, whether they're dealing with good or bad, to think of juvenile delinquency in terms of a blanket indictment of all our young boys and girls. It isn't just average Americans who are guilty of thinking and talking this way.

Too many of our governmental authorities do it, too. And so do too many of us who publish the newspapers and magazines and operate the other mass media, radio and TV.

It takes events like the Chicago teen-age rally to give all of us the proper perspective. Chicago is a major American city, and not a day goes by but that some of its teen-agers get into trouble, serious trouble.

But for every one of them, there are a hundred others who "keep out of trouble and help others stay on the right track." This phrase is a part of the pledge taken by those 30,000 boys and girls at the big rally.

George Sokolsky Says...

Post Office's Function Is To Deliver Mails-Leaving Policing To The FBI

It is a very important part of my duty to read publications which come from Soviet Russia.

I also read the "Daily Worker" and other Communist journals published in the United States. Because it has been possible to have access to what the other side thinks and does, I have been enabled to evaluate their activities and to write about them for my readers. Now along comes the Post Office with a decision to enforce ignorance by excluding such publications from the mails. This decision takes from those who are opposing Communism in this country the most valuable tools available to them. Let me cite an example. On January 30, in a broadcast, I said:

"... Soviet Russia has been going through a period of internal political difficulties since the death of Stalin because the collective leadership principle has not altogether been a success. It will be recalled that after Stalin died, a triumvirate was set up consisting of Malenkov, Beria and Molotov. Beria was killed, after he had attempted to pull a coup d'etat of some kind. Then Khrushchev emerged as the head of the Communist Party."

"So, at this moment, the Democratic Centralism system of Soviet Russia is managed by Malenkov and Khrushchev. Malenkov being the head of the government, Khrushchev the head of the party. It appears that Khrushchev is more powerful of the two and is gradually emerging as a successor to Stalin."

Khrushchev publicly took control of Russia on February 8, a week after I made this evaluation. The literature of the subject made it clear during the previous November and December that Malenkov no longer mattered and that Khrushchev had become the boss. It was also clear from the literature that what we got into the habit of calling "peaceful co-existence" had been abandoned as an effective slogan and that Khrushchev was adopting a policy of making Soviet Russia more formidable as a military power.

By reading material that comes out of China, last September, I wrote about the deep concern in that country over the rising birth rate, the population rising to about 600,000,000. China has never taken a scientific census but by a rule-of-thumb method they have a fairly good approximation of their population. Many suggestions have been made for reducing that population, one being the transfer of Chinese labor for the development of the Karakum Desert near the Caspian Sea. I do not know what has happened to that scheme which was so important to Stalin that Vishinsky made a speech on how atomic power was being used to blast mountains, etc.

It takes endless reading to keep up with all the forces and movements in this changing world and the best reading is original material published for home consumption. In my time as a foreign correspondent, I have seen the fast moving, adjectival star reporter rush into China or Japan, read the local foreign press, meet diplomats, and having written to meet a deadline, rush to the next country. Sometimes this works out because it brings a fresh mind to a problem, puts it in perspective, and catches the trend rather than the detail.

But for the fundamental knowledge of a country, it is necessary to know its history, sociology and economics, to know something of its language and literature, and to read constantly what its people read. Experts on Russia, such as Professor Philip Mosely of Columbia University or George Kennan, formerly of the State Department, may not evaluate events as you or I might, but their knowledge is invaluable and must be available even for those who have another view. If all those who study these problems, whether they are attached to universities or newspapers or to nothing, are to be cut off from knowledge, our country will suffer the consequences of lack of knowledge.

It is stupid to believe that it is possible to fight Communism by increasing ignorance concerning Communism. It is fatuous to assume that the American people can gain a correct view on Russia if they are excluded from knowledge of Russia. If the Post Office wishes to serve the cause of anti-Communism, it ought not to exclude anything from the mails. And I am sure that all experts on the subject will agree that the Post Office's function is to deliver the mails efficiently and to leave policing to the FBI which is experienced in this field.

The Reluctant Lie Detector

Wherein one meets up with a Senate Committee witness who, as a self-confessed liar, boasts of his Muenchausen exploits and even writes a book about his skill in hearing false witness. Senator — Are you taking this lie detector test willingly?

A — I am, but the lie detector seems to be putting up a fight.

Q — Naturally the lie detector feels outmatched and uncomfortable, but let's proceed. Where do you live?

A — Sandusky, Vermont.

Q — Sandusky is not in Vermont.

A — What do I care if I give false answers on geography?

Q — Are you married or single?

A — I'm not giving my position on that until I determine the book possibilities both ways.

Q — Are you uneasy before a lie detector?

A — Not in the least.

Q — Why not?

A — It's a retail lie detector; I tell my lies wholesale.

Q — You have testified you lied for money. How much do you expect to make ultimately?

A — Certainly, I am the author of "Huckleberry Finn," "Treasure Island," "Two Years Before the Mast," "Wuthering Heights," "War and Peace" and "Gone With the Wind."

Q — (as the lie detector blows a fuse)—Do you stand by this claim?

A — Certainly, I've got this apparatus on the ropes already. It's too far gone to demand a return bout.

Q — In appearing here are you telling the truth as of today or as of the day before yesterday?

A — (consulting his schedule)—As of two weeks ago Tuesday.

(Here the lie detector sputters, develops a hot-box, blows a gasket and drops six quarters and a handful of dimes.)

Witness—Is this a lie detector or a slot machine?

Sensor—It's too groggy to feel certain.

Q — You have testified that you are a liar who has reformed. Is this the truth?

(Before he can answer, the lie detector rings a bell, blows a whistle and sends off an odor of hot brakes. It also drops a stick of chewing gum, passes out a cold bottle of coke and flashes an electric sign reading: "I give up.")

Witness (loudly)—There's something wrong with this machine! I claim a TILT!

There may be a TV revival of "Peter Pan," but the rumor that Mary Martin will sing two new numbers, "My Heart Belongs to Barrie" and "I'm in Love With a Wonderful Guy-Rope" is denied by "Huckleberry Finn."

There are moments in the stock market probe when it appears that certain politicians are determined to prove there is something all wrong with national prosperity... The heiress wife of Sammy Renick, jockey and track announcer, alleges he asked a million from her father to give her a divorce, but cut it down to $200,000... Well, a million is after all, too much weight... John Marquand's "Sincerely, Willis Wayde" has been sold for a play and our belief that there will be a movie called "Going by Wayde" is stronger than ever... TV program with a $64,000 jackpot is in works... Contestants start with a dollar and keep doubling their winnings... This should complete the process of driving America crazy, raising living-room suspense to an all-time high and breaking all previous marks for frustration complexes, coast to coast... Ex U. S. Congressman James Shanley of Connecticut will be master of ceremonies at a Knights of St. Patrick's banquet for the 21st consecutive year, Mr. Ripley... Congrats to Art Carney and Audrey Meadows on their selection as the outstanding supporting actors on any TV program... They are both terrific, give to their roles the perfection of characterizations straight out of Charles Dickens... They give TV fans the rarest thing on the video screen, actors who know how to play with restraint... Carney is the only comedian we know of who often gets a laugh without opening his mouth.

St. Patrick's Day Reminds Us Many Ingredients Here

In recent years we all have been pried with a persistent propaganda aimed at persuading us that nationalistic devotion is something to be deplored and repressed.

In genteel circles it has been strongly implied that there is something essentially childish, if not boorish, about nationalism. The idea, apparently, is that mature people ought to be a little ashamed of displaying love of their country or genuine pride in its traditions and achievements.

I for one don't believe it for a minute. And I doubt very much whether anyone else really believes it.

Certainly very few people in this country believe it on St. Patrick's day.

Most of us have forgotten the original significance of St. Patrick's day, if we ever knew it. Few but the feature writers even care much about the historical details and the legendary tapestry that has been woven around the patron saint of Ireland. Not many have either personal or vicarious memories of the Emerald Isle to cherish and fewer still have any strong emotional ties to "the auld sod," whatever that is.

For all practical purposes, St. Patrick's day has become the day we honor the Irish. And nearly everybody feels good about it.

What's more, we should. The feeling is wholly natural and we all become a little bit more worthy of honor by giving it free rein.

Speaking as one who has done some forebears in Ireland, I dare say the Irish as a people are no better than they should be.

And I'll like the first man who dares say they're any worse.

The thing that counts is that the Irish are a wonderful, irrefragable lot who have made a large and valuable contribution to the makeup of what can now be recognized almost anywhere as an American.

I haven't the scholarship to analyze the Irish national character and point out what specific American characteristics can be traced to it. As a matter of fact, I am more than a little skeptical of the widespread tendency to tag this or that trait as "typically Irish."

It takes no laboratory dissection job to establish that the Irish strain in our national bloodstream has played an important part in shaping the general American outlook on life—which, in turn, has had a lot to do with the nation's remarkable achievement.

It's a healthy thing for us to rejoice in that strain by all being Irishmen, or at least honorary Irishmen, once a year. Not only is it fun but it serves to remind us that a great many ingredients went into the mixture from which the present-day American is made—and that there's nothing narrow or ingrown about a strong and abiding pride in that mixture.

In addition to St. Patrick's day we should also have a day each for the Scandinavians, English, Germans, Italians and who not?

McAllen loves to tell about the young girl who was taken to a ball game to see Mickey Mantle in action. She had heard a great deal about the Yankee baseball star and was quite anxious to see him play. When he came up to bat she strained her neck to make sure that she did not miss a motion of his stance at the plate, and her eyes did not leave him when he was stationed in the outfield. Her boy friend was beaming because of her interest in the game as Mantle came up to bat for the second time, when she suddenly turned to him and said, "Well, dear, let's go, this is where we came in!"

CD Head Advises Travel From A-Attack Region

Washington. — You can stop worrying about what to do in the event of an atomic attack!

Civil Defense Administrator Val Peterson has the answer. It is amazingly simple. It also reveals a great deal about the inner workings of the Civil Defense Administration.

The momentous disclosure was made during a private talk with a senator.

He is Senator Robert Kerr, multi-millionaire Oklahoma oilman, who is renovating his Washington residence. He decided to look into the advisability of converting the basement into a raid shelter, and took up the matter personally with Peterson.

The former Nebraska Governor heartily approved Kerr's idea, adding that lead provides the best protection against radiation. Peterson asked where Kerr's house is located.

"On the outskirts of Washington," replied Kerr. "It's a few miles from Capitol Hill."

"Senator, in that case," said Peterson, "my advice is that if you get any advance warning, forget about your shelter. The thing for you to do is to put your family in a car and start driving as far as you can get. That's the very best thing you could possibly do."

Note: Three more atomic tests have been added to the series now in progress on the Nevada firing range. This brings the total up to 11, the largest number in any one series to date.

No Stinting—There has been one significant exception to the extensive budget slashing the House Appropriations Committee has been doing in its secret deliberations.

This exception is cancer research.

Not only have these funds been left untouched, but the Committee has gone further and given the National Cancer Institute $1,000,000 more than it asked for.

The Institute, part of the National Institute of Health, Bethesda, Md., requested $19,000,000 for the coming fiscal year, an increase of $500,000 over the current budget. After listening to Dr. John Heller Jr., director of NCI, the Committee voluntarily upped the total to $20,000,000.

This unannounced decision is particularly noteworthy because Dr. Heller talked cold turkey to the legislators. He offered neither scares nor cures. Following are highlights of the world-famed expert's testimony:

"Cancer research is not without its successes, though we have yet to reach pay dirt in terms of causes of cancer. Progress in the control of cancer is continuing steadily but not spectacularly."

"The NCI is conducting a world-wide search for plants which contain cancer-destroying agents."

"No cures of human cancer have been achieved with drugs alone, but the Institute has a full-time program searching for such drugs... Of 12,000 chemical compounds so far analyzed by the Institute, 500 have been found to merit further study."

"This year, about 235,000 persons will die of cancer, and another 750,000 will be treated for cancer. Of that number, 500,000 will be new cases... The number of new cancer cases is increasing every year... Since the turn of the century, cancer has advanced from eighth to second place as the most frequent cause of death in the U. S. Heart ailments are first."

"The incidence of cancer is one-third greater for white persons in the South and West than in the North... Prevalence of skin cancer is higher among those working outdoors than indoors."

Committeemen asked a lot of questions about the widely-discussed subject of the relation between smoking and lung cancer. Following is a condensation of Dr. Heller's comments:

"There has been a sharp increase in lung cancer... Lung cancer is found four times as frequently among men as among women... The cancer death rate of the white population in the U. S. is now definitely higher for men than for women. This is a reversal of the situation which existed previously... An analysis of available data indicates that the risk of lung cancer is ten times as great among heavy cigarette smokers as among non-cigarette smokers."

"To clarify this relationship, a study was begun last year for the purpose of relating the cause of death to the smoking habits of 300,000 World War I veterans. We are also making a survey of smoking habits in collaboration with the Census Bureau. Also being studied is a case history study on lung cancer in women."

Fewer Screwballs—The Secret Service investigated 200 fewer threats against President Eisenhower last year than in 1953. The total was 1,434 as against 1,633.

That's what Secret Service Chief U. E. Baughman told the House Appropriations Subcommittee, headed by Representative J. Vaughan Gary (D-Va.), that handles this budget.

"Do you feel you are ready for any contingency that might arise at the White House involving the safety of the President?" asked Representative Alfred D. Sleninski (D-N.J.).

"Yes, we are," replied Baughman, "as much as is humanly possible."

Control Of Purse Proposal

—by H. G. Heller

The Hoover Commission an organization of the executive branch of the Government, has come up with another plan—this one again involving considerable controversy—dealing with the various loan agencies operated by the Federal Government.

The Commission holds in its new report:

Without impairment of essential lending, guaranteeing and insuring functions, and with continuing Government regulation, those Federal agencies which have demonstrated their ability to stand on their own feet should be brought into the private enterprise system, as has been done with other agencies, notably the Federal Reserve Banks, the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation and the Federal Land Banks.

The recommendations of the Commission result from studies of 104 Federal agencies. The group advises:

Federal loans, guarantees and insurance have grown to such magnitude, $244 billion in all, that a broad reorganization has become necessary in the interest of sound operations and economy.

Commission recommends that certain agencies be mutualized much as mutual savings banks and mutual life insurance companies are, but under Federal regulation. It also recommends that hidden subsidies be disclosed to the public and that agencies generally be made self-supporting.

It is estimated that $4,336,000,000 would be recovered ultimately by the Treasury through the reorganization plans. While it is impossible to calculate fully the benefits to the taxpayers of the recommendations, the Commission notes, the group foresees ultimate annual savings of $200 million by requiring that agencies collect the administrative expenses from their borrowers or other beneficiaries, by imposing on borrowers on future loans interest rates equaling the cost of money to the Government, and by requiring agencies operating with Federal funds, to surrender Government securities held by them to the Treasury in return for non-interest bearing credit.

The Treasury would, it is estimated, recover approximately $297,751.00 from the liquidation of certain agencies.

One of the other prime results anticipated from the reorganization program would be to restore the "control of the purse" to the Congress.

Whether Congress desires so complete a control of the purse is a moot question.

It was Congress who created the agencies and approved huge grants for their operation and services.

Stroudsburg Council Considers Building, Plumbing Codes

Some Zoning Phases May Be Involved

STROUDSBURG COUNCIL last night approved plans for a study of both building and plumbing codes to regulate future building operations in the borough.

Preliminary will include a study of model ordinances covering both fields, before setting up a system of controls. Some phases of zoning may be involved in these studies.

Five bids were received on filter and water purification system for the playground swimming pool. They were turned over to Engineer Edward C. Hess for study. An award will be made at the regular meeting on April 6.

Council set up about $16,000 to cover filter installation and a building to house the equipment.

Haynes motors was awarded a contract for a new Ford police car. The net bid, which included an allowance for the present police car and less federal tax which the borough is not required to pay, was $394.38.

An ordinance covering installation of curbs and gutters on the south side of Phillips Street only was adopted by a three to two vote.

The issue involved was a proposal to do both sides of the street. The north side of the street touches on properties in Stroud Township. However, boroughs are allowed by law to make such improvements where half the street is in the borough and may assess costs on property extending 150 feet into the township.

Councilman Ed Doran said he had received some complaints from some of the Stroud property owners that they were unable to pay half of the $160 a front foot for curbs. He said the improvement on the north side should be deferred.

The vote on an ordinance to do only the south side found Doran, Councilmen Ed Warnick and Daniel Warner voting for the ordinance. Councilman H. G. Heller and Edward R. Lawson voted against it because it did not cover both sides of the street.

Yalta Papers Made Public

their aides met then to discuss the fate of Germany, the future of Eastern Europe, the formation of the United Nations and the general progress of World War II.

There was no official explanation as to why Secretary of State Dulles had decided to let the documents become public.

However, it was understood the decision was made after the State Department heard that a newspaper had obtained a copy of the record and planned to publish it tomorrow morning.

The State Department for many months had reportedly favored publication to clear up any remaining mysteries over what actually took place between Roosevelt, Stalin and Churchill.

The agreements of the Yalta conference have been in political controversy almost from the moment the conference ended.

In general the controversy resulted from charges voiced by Republican leaders and some Democrats that Roosevelt made undue concessions which gave Stalin a new strategic position in the Far East. They said these also permitted Soviet-Communist domination of Eastern Europe from the Baltic to the Black Sea.

The record shows that the Yalta conference produced long hours of argument over the creation of free and independent governments in Eastern European governments liberated from Hitler's armies, and especially over formation of an independent government in Poland. In the end Stalin agreed to free elections in the liberated countries.

The defenders of Roosevelt's policies at Yalta have always argued that it was Russian violations of this agreement which spread Red rule throughout the Eastern European countries.

The Yalta conference took place in February, 1945, with Russia agreeing to go to war against Japan within two or three months after the subjugation of Germany, which came May 7, 1945.

Russia entered the war against Japan on Aug. 9, 1945, three days after the atomic bomb was dropped on Hiroshima. Japan surrendered on Aug. 14.

The Yalta papers said that Roosevelt, in expressing hope Britain would give the sovereignty of Hong Kong back to China, added that the city should then become an internationalized port.

It was recorded that Roosevelt "knew Mr. Churchill would have strong objections to this suggestion." At any rate, Hong Kong is still a British crown colony.

In addition to terms for Russia entering the war and the arguments for the liberated countries, the conference produced a secret-at-the-time agreement to grant Russia the equivalent of three seats in the forthcoming United Nations.

This was on the basis of including the Ukraine and White Russia as members along with the Soviet Union.

Six other women assemblymen were among 25 members in their seats during Mrs. Reibman's reign as Madame Speaker. Her husband and sons Joseph 9, and Edwin 7, were among the spectators.

Bangor Board Votes To Build School Annex

BANGOR — The Bangor Area Joint School Board last night decided to retain Editor J. J. Lipi, Wilkes-Barre architect, to draw up plans for the construction of a building which will include a cafeteria. The building's cost was set at $22,000.

The proposed cement block building is to be built adjacent to the high school on land where tennis courts were formerly located. The structure will be approximately 5,350 square feet at an estimated cost of $4.50 per square foot. The cost would include general construction, heating, plumbing and electric wiring.

Lipi told the board the building plans would be ready in two or three weeks. If the plans met the approval of the state's Department of Public Instruction, he said work would get underway in the summer and could be completed by Sept. 1.

Board President David Stoddard appointed a special committee of Nedie Mabius, Frank DePaolo and Donald Creighton to assemble facts and data to be held in abeyance until and if the Northampton County Board should request such information concerning plans to form a jointure by Washington Township, Upper Mt. Bethel, East Bangor and Portland.

The decision followed a resolution entered by Mabius asking that such facts be assembled as factual evidence if needed. The county board had previously turned down the new jointure due to lack of the factual evidence proving its need.

Mabius stated: "Since the Bangor area joint school system has operated for nearly a year, we have proved sufficiently that we have an efficient system. We have kept a hands-off policy insofar as the proposed four-district jointure is concerned."

The Bangor representative told the members it was about time the group had something to say about it. He told of having sufficient proof that citizens in one or more of those districts believe in the Bangor Area Jointure and want it to continue to function and not have the area schools it is serving broken up into smaller and less efficient units.

"I say it is time for the Bangor Area Joint School System to as-

School Board Orders Lost Days Made Up

THREE days lost by students during a recent flu epidemic have been restored to the school calendar by Barrett Township School directors.

Meeting this week, directors ordered Easter recess shortened by one day, and two more days tacked onto the end of the term.

Students will return from Easter vacation on April 13 instead of 14, and the last day of school will be June 14 instead of 10.

Bills in the amount of $10,343.14 were approved for payment. George W. Webb Jr., supervising principal, told directors the new program clock for the school had been received and installed in the office.

Present at the meeting were directors Harry J. Drennan, Theodore R. Verney, Earl S. Rose, J. Reed Sigla.

seem all facts and data necessary to prove that we have a good school system and are making it a better one. One school system with the qualifications of ours is by far better than two smaller systems," commented Mabius.

In other words, four new janitors were hired to replace a quartet of retiring workers. The newcomers were chosen following recommendation by the property committee from a list of 35 applicants. Lester Collins, 55, will begin his new duties as janitor and maintenance custodian on April 1 at a salary of $2,300. The others will begin work June 15 with salaries to be announced later. They are Horace Tucker, 42, now the janitor and custodian at Camp Karamac, N. J.; Glenwood H. Jones, 39, janitor at the Salem Evangelical Brethren Church of Bangor, and Frederick Mackintosh, 50.

The retiring janitor group includes John Sayre, Calvin Reed, Jacob Yetter and Ira Dutt. Eight of the nine board members were on hand for the special meeting.

Famed Logines Symphonette Appears Here Friday Night In Third Community Concert

THE LONGINES Symphonette comes to State Teachers College auditorium Friday night.

Under direction of Mishel Piatro, the orchestra—one of America's most famous—will present the third in this season's series of Pocono Community Concerts.

The orchestra is a favorite of music critics across the nation; but five times been awarded the critics' prize as the finest of its kind appearing on radio or television.

Local Community Concert spokesmen have come across an odd situation, however, in their discussion of the symphony with some subscribers, one of them said yesterday.

Seems as though some residents are under the impression that the addition of the suffix "ette" to a word which would normally, they say, be "symphony orchestra" denotes a lowering of quality.

Not so, members of the Community Concert group said. "Actually the symphonette, conducted by Mishel Piatro, is a full symphony orchestra in all respects except large numbers and with all instruments represented," a spokesman said. "The essential difference between the symphonette and the usual symphony orchestra is merely the fact that the symphonette has a smaller string section."

The original Logines Symphonette, which took to the airwaves in the Spring of 1941, was a chamber orchestra "symphonette" in the truest sense, consisting of 13 musicians, all first desk men of the New York Philharmonic Symphony Orchestra.

In 1943, woodwinds were added, and then the symphonette was enlarged to include all of the usual instruments of the full orchestra. The sire of the present group is almost identical to the "symphony orchestra" of Mozart's and Mendelssohn's day and for which these masters composed their works.

Matusow Given Three Years For Lying

EL PASO, Tex., March 16 (AP)—U.S. Dist. Judge R. E. Thomason today sentenced turnabout witness Harvey Matusow to three years in a federal prison.

The judge said he was convinced Matusow was lying in recanting testimony against accused Communists.

The stocky, 28-year-old New Yorker was led from the courtroom in handcuffs and locked in the county jail until he can raise $10,000 appeal bond.

Thomason sentenced Matusow for criminal contempt of court for filing an affidavit taking back testimony as to the Communist connections of Clinton Jencks at a trial here in 1954.

Matusow and other witnesses testified against Jencks who was convicted of falsifying a non-Communist affidavit under the Taft-Hartley Act and sentenced to five years in prison. Jencks, an official of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers has appealed the sentence.

The judge said he believed Matusow's original testimony to have been the truth and his reversal to have been part of a deliberate scheme to obstruct justice.

"I am firmly convinced from the evidence of the witnesses, including Matusow himself . . . that the evidence offered in support of the (Jencks) rehearing motion was not worthy of belief . . . that Matusow alone or with others nefariously . . . schemed to use this court as a forum for the purpose of calling public attention to a book, reportedly written by Matusow, entitled 'False Witness,'"

Judge Thomason said. "This court finds the fact to be that as early as Sept. 21, 1954, responsible officials of the mine-mill union, under the guise of seeking evidence in Jencks' behalf, subsidized the writing and publication of this book by authorizing the expenditure of union funds for that purpose."

Matusow denied from the stand he had conspired with the mine-mill union or the publishers of his book to obstruct justice.

The 21-year-old call girl said several men made it their headquarters for sex parties with her.

The state's star witness at Jelke's compulsory prostitution trial, Miss Ward told of one impatient customer who showed up early for a date, thereby forcing Jelke to grab his coat and beat a retreat via a side entrance.

"Mickey laughed afterwards and said it was a close call," said the slender, raven-haired vice doll.

The state contends Miss Ward is one of two call girls recruited by the 25-year-old oleomargarine heir for the $50 to $100-a-date Cafe Society vice circuit. The other is Marguerite Cordova, a 25-year-old Puerto Rican-born hatcheck girl.

Nervous but dry eyed, Miss Ward began her second day on the witness stand with name after name of well-heeled men who paid for her charms. Yesterday, at the outset of her sordid recital, she broke down and was unable to continue. An overnight recess restored a measure of poise but her face was chalky white and her hands trembled nervously.

Before Miss Ward went back on the stand today, Juror No. 12, Max Cohen, was excused on agreement of both sides. Alternate Juror Ernest G. Wheeler, a married postal clerk, moved into his place.

Cohen told Judge Valente a newspaperman contacted him last night about a raid on Manhattan's West Side. The reporter wanted to know if the raided property was owned by Cohen, a real estate man. Cohen said it was not.

Because the jurors had been admonished not to talk to newspapermen during the trial, Valente excused Cohen "in the interests of substantial justice."

The judge warned reporters covering the trial to keep away from the jurors or "there may be serious consequences."

Gov. Leader Pledges Aid To Disabled

PHILADELPHIA, March 16 (AP)—Gov. George M. Leader, in a precedent setting speech, promised today the Democratic administration would push legislation to provide workmen's compensation payments for disabled workers as long as they live.

"I feel that a man in this condition ought to receive compensation for his injuries all of his life," Leader told the 1,200 delegates attending the State CIO Council convention. His appearance marked the first time a Pennsylvania governor has ever spoken at a Pennsylvania CIO convention.

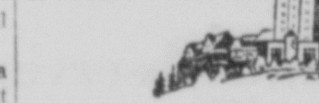

Leader said the workmen's compensation proposal is part of the "great objective that we must fasten upon and never forget, full employment in Pennsylvania."

Other parts of this program he talked about today in the 25-minute address included:

A pledge to veto any "right to work" measures which might cross his desk. This drew a standing ovation from the delegates. Right

SHOT BY UNSEEN KILLER in scene from "Lunatics At Large," Pocono High School junior play is Ronnie LaBar, shown stretched out here in a state of deathly stupor. Others who arrive on scene after bullet is fired are Norma Jean Butz, Tommy Besecker (a Chinese sage), Farley Peechatka and Jim Smiley. When play is presented Friday audiences will find out who fired the shot. Cast guarantees a "surprise" ending for all but the most brilliant amateur Sherlock. 165,000 Trees Ordered For Reforestation INCREASED tree orders mounted to 165,000 in the Delaware Forest District, according to tabulation by Assistant District Forester Robert L. Pierce.

Minimum orders of 1,000 trees are approved for reforestation purposes. They are not approved for commercial use. The trees are one to three year seedlings and are only four to twelve inches high depending upon the species. Planting about 8 by 8 feet apart they require about 700 trees per acre.

Many people believe that the trees can not be utilized until they are large enough for saw logs or lumber. This is not the case. The Commonwealth permits and encourages the thinning of plantings after they are 15 to 20 feet tall. Tops of the trees may be used for Christmas greens, and stems for posts, rails or poles under a proper thinning procedure.

This may be done periodically over the years until approximately 150 to 200 trees remain for the ultimate or final saw log crop.

Monroe County still leads in the tree order campaign with 100,000 trees ordered to date.

Northampton County is second with 35,000 trees.

Pike County is third with 30,000 trees.

Information on reforestation and ordering trees may be obtained from the district forester or Department of Forests and Waters, 1081 W. Main St., Stroudsburg.

Dr. Graham Addresses Organists

HENRYVILLE — The monthly meeting of Pocono Mountains Chapter, American Guild of Organists, was held Tuesday night in Pocono Union Church. There was a good attendance.

Richard K. Lindroth, dean of the chapter, conducted the meeting. A recording made in Europe by E. Powers Biggs was used. It presented Mr. Biggs in several selections on 16th century organs which are still in use in Germany, England and Denmark.

Mr. Lindroth introduced the guest speaker Dr. W. E. Graham, Music Department, East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, whose subject was "The Junior Choir." Dr. Graham presented clear and precise details on how to handle the work. A general discussion followed.

Mrs. Arthur Post of the Church was hostess to the group.

Fourth Girl Succumbs To Crash Injuries

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 16 (AP)—Seven-year-old Iris Ascanazy died tonight, the fourth victim of a runaway automobile that jumped a sidewalk Monday and struck five children.

Betty Scheuer, 11, still is critical. Funerals are scheduled tomorrow for the first three to die: Anita Arena, 6, and Lynn Douglas and Jean Pavel, both 11.

The girls, returning from school, were struck as an automobile driven by 37-year-old Emil Decina raced along the sidewalk and street for nearly two blocks before smashing into a grocery store.

Decina pleaded innocent before City Judge James B. McKenna today to a charge of criminal negligence. Decina looked down, tight-lipped, as the plea was entered by his attorney, Richard Lipsitz.

McKenna set bail at $10,000 and adjourned the case until April 1. Decina, who wears a hearing aid in his left ear, was brought to court from Meyer Memorial Hospital where doctors had been examining him and checking into his medical background.

Decina's family was quoted yesterday as saying he had undergone an operation several years ago to relieve pressure on his brain caused by an automobile accident when he was seven.

During recent months, the family said, he suffered from "infrequent convulsions" because of his affliction, and for a long time had refused to drive. Recently, he started to drive more as his condition improved, the family said.

Decina told police he felt weak as he drove along Delaware Avenue near the city limits Monday afternoon. He said he "blacked out" and regained consciousness in his wrecked car inside a store.

Clarence Shiffler Honored At Rites

SOUTH STERLING — Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon for Clarence J. Shiffler, 72, late of Greentown. Rev. Harry Roof officiated with burial in the new Greentown Cemetery.

The pallbearers were Francis Hanlon, Charles and Frank Beavers, Frank Wrigley, William and John Romeis.

New York Butter

NEW YORK, March 16 (AP)—Butter about steady. Receipts 550,000. Prices unchanged.

CHEAPER BY THE DOZEN, a comedy about an efficiency expert with 12 (count 'em) 12 children, is the Eastburg junior class play. It will be seen Friday night in junior high school auditorium; tickets on sale at door. In play "pop" is a man with big ideas on how to save time, money and energy; believes in large families. Fortunately, father never gets around to the theory that gross lots are cheaper than buying by the dozen. Seen here in one scene from production are Joan Smith and Ronny Anthony, foreground, who play the parents; Peggy Yost, Nina Burnley, Paul Dellaria, Jean Stine, Bobbi Barrow, Jim Terrill, Kathy Hamblin and Paul Hoffman, who play most of the children.

Bevan Split With Laborites Will Extend Conservative Party Control Of Parliament

By J. M. Roberts
Associated Press News Analyst

Four years ago Aneurin Bevan bolted a tottering Labor Cabinet and contributed to a party split which helped the return of Winston Churchill's Conservatives to power in Britain.

Now Bevan has been bolted by the Labor members of Parliament and may be ousted from the party, with the prospect that the split will confirm Conservative control for several more years.

Both party crises were produced by Bevan's opposition to policies vitally affecting Britain's relations with the United States.

First, as minister of health supervising the socialization of medicine in Britain, he violently opposed spending money for British rearmament to meet her obligations in the North Atlantic Alliance.

He has always fought the United States tooth and nail. He is credited with being no Communist, but he has followed the Communist line whenever he could embarrass British relations with the United States.

The latest break with Clement Attlee's dominant clique in the party is over rearmament of Western Germany, which he and the Russians violently oppose.

Bevan has been fighting a rear-guard action for years for control of the party. In the beginning, his opposition to arms expenditures met a certain response among the British people, tired of years of war and postwar austerity.

But it was hard to say whether this vain, ambitious, blustering man was interested in the issues or in his own personal advancement. He did many things to interfere with even the most broad-minded efforts to credit him with sincerity. He has been frequently called a demagogue. During the war Winston Churchill called him an "architect of disloyalty" and a "merchant of discourtesy."

Now the fiery Welsh orator and former coal miner is isolated from the parliamentary councils of his party and faces a fight to prevent his ouster from the party itself.

Just how much this will affect his actual leadership of the extreme left wing is not yet clear. He has staged comebacks before.

particularly after his ouster from the party in 1939 for trying to establish a popular front movement with the Communists. That time it took him three months to get back in.

This time, however, he has established a record over a long period of refusing to abide by party policy and of opposition to its elected leaders.

The situation leaves the party in bitter division as the time approaches for new elections—which Prime Minister Churchill can move up if he wishes. But the Attlee moderates figure they will be better off with the division, but free of the divisive tactics, anyway.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

Well, the luck of the Irish to you, too. As for me, I've had my luck for the year. Though, actually, it's not so much luck as the essential honesty of people. Need anybody to defend the affirmative in a debate on "People are Honest." I'm your man.

My besetting sin is carelessness. I lose things. I leave the keys to the car on the notion counter. I leave dishes and silver at the church supper. Once I lost my wallet outside the grounds of an insane asylum near the Ohio line.

And people send them back — usually at some trouble to themselves. However in this last episode, I thought I'd finally gone too far. I had put money I was saving for a special purpose in a special wallet so I wouldn't spend it by mistake.

It was a new wallet without any identification whatsoever, so when I couldn't find it after a particularly hectic day of hopping in and out of the car at various and sundry places—I really had no hope of getting it back.

An honest person might find the wallet but he wouldn't find me. But he did—except it was a she. Three weeks ago last Monday it was that, I lost it. In the Cohen's driveway, it turns out, on the way to a meeting I didn't get to because it was so late.

A teacher on the way to school picked it up and turned it in at the house. Poor Audrey has spent the ensuing time calling the people who were at the meeting, calling the Girl Scouts who were there earlier, and wracking her brains.

How she ever thought of calling me on the chance I might have almost come to the meeting, I wouldn't know. But she did. And maybe I've learned my lesson in being more careful. Certainly the lesson I should know by heart by now is that people are wonderful.

Listen To Bobby Westbrook on the Party Line over WVFO every Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 10:45 a.m.

THE Wyckoff SHOPPER

Top of the marnin' to you, and isn't it wonderful to be wearin' the green once again and hearin' all those beautiful Irish melodies over the air? As a Maloney, I do hope that this will be a great day for all of you named Murphy, Flanagan, O'Rourke, O'Toole, and the like—a day that'll set your feet to jiggin' and cheer the smile in those twinklin' Irish eyes.

Can you imagine paying $500.00 for a book? Much as I love my library, I can't. I can't even imagine that much money in the first place, not really. Nevertheless this was a book originally published to sell at that price—a book, appropriately enough, called "The Mint."

It's author was T. E. Lawrence, the renowned "Lawrence of Arabia," and the book was first printed in 1936 just one year after his death. Of fifty copies to come from the press at that time, ten were offered at the half-million dollar figure . . . you see, it wasn't exactly a best-seller.

The unusual price resulted from the fact that Lawrence specified in his will the book was not to be published before 1950, at which time he felt that certain mentioned persons would be dead. However, the limited edition was published of necessity to insure copyright, and Henry Seidel Canby, then associated with the Saturday Review of Literature, achieved a journalistic scoop by reviewing the copy deposited with the Library of Congress.

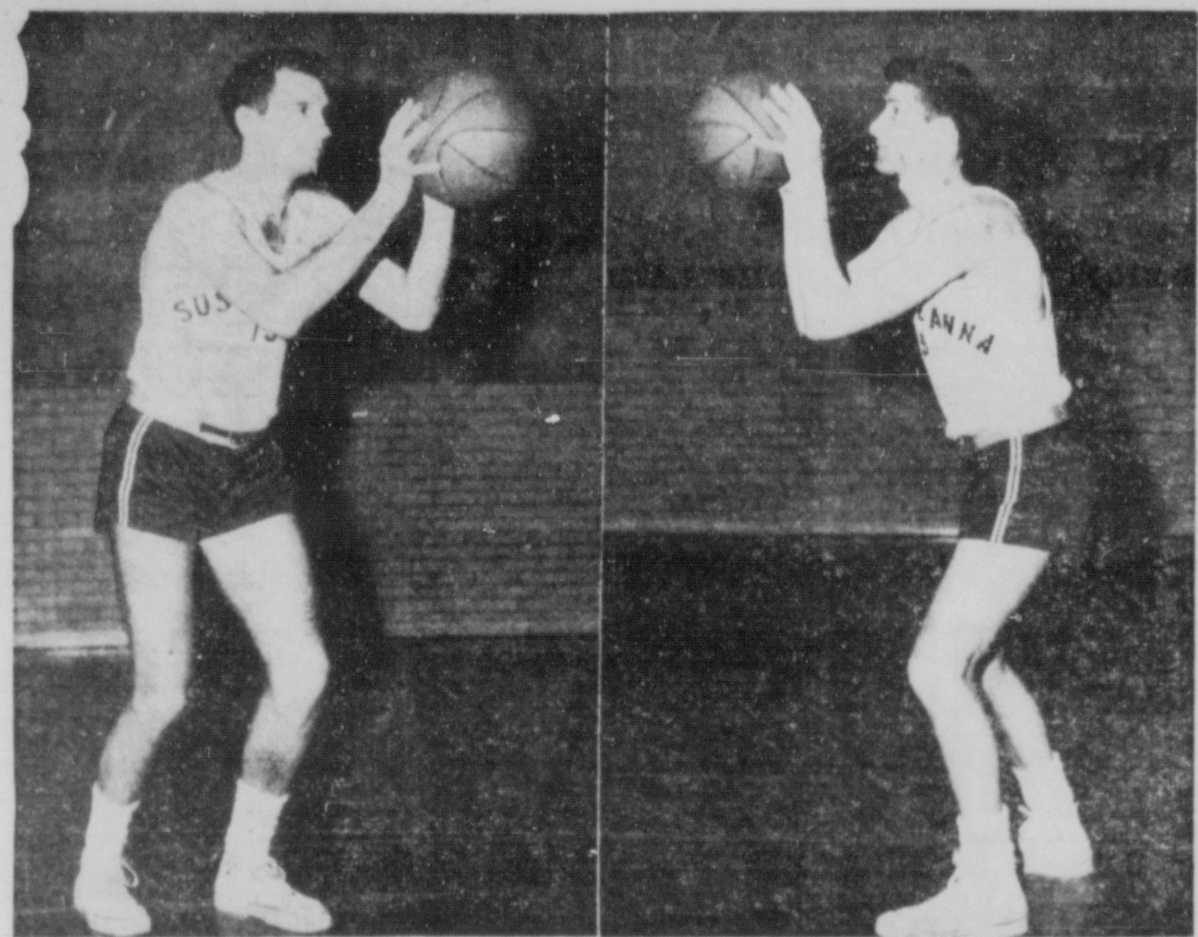

"The Mint" tells the story of Lawrence's experiences with the RAF in the 1920's. Trying to escape the legend he had created during his services for the Allies in the Near East, Lawrence had enlisted as an RAF private. Copies of the volume, circulated privately in England, did much to bring about improvement in the RAF training program.

We mention all this because a limited, inexpensive edition of 1000 copies, is being issued today by Doubleday. It sounds wonderful, except that Doubleday and I don't see eye to eye on the word "inexpensive." The price is $20 . . . and right now, that would buy me a lot of dishes, tablecloths, and things.

Here are a few new items which you will want to see in our gift department: beautiful, shiny brass plaques both round and rectangular in all types of designs—there's even a set of two that has all the words of "Bless This House" . . . doilies and mats from Japan in three sizes, and scalloped oblong. The prices range from 29c to 1.66, with blue, wine, green, and black as the predominant colors . . . silver and golden wedding anniversary glassware of rich crystal, banded and decorated in either sterling or genuine gold. Some pieces are not lettered for anniversaries and would make stunning wedding gifts. In the collection are sandwich plates, candlesticks, large bowls, vases, celery holders, bon bon compotes, swan flowerers or candy dishes, sugar and creamers, and ash trays. You've been asking for these—and here they are!

Serfass also released the revised budget for football next season. The budget was drawn up by the faculty athletic manager and approved by the association. It includes both high school and junior high school football.

Other expected expenditures on the budget are first aid supplies, $175; insurance, $360; doctor and hospital fees, $300; transportation, which includes varsity, junior varsity, junior high teams and band, $800; programs, $165; officials, $271; police, $290; faculty members on ticket lines, $110; clinics, $130; scouting, $35; reconditioning, $832.55; weekly cleaning of uniforms, $125; awards, $40; line and field work, $25; guarantees for East Stroudsburg and Penn Argy, $430; light service, $100; cheerleaders, $100, and miscellaneous, $100.

Stetler Increases Scoring Lead In Mountains League

DELAWARE WATER GAP—Henry "Hank" Stetler increased his scoring lead in the Pocono Mountains Basketball League to 33 points during the past week, according to figures released here last night by Kenneth Barnes, league statistician.

Stetler, adding 26 points against Barrett while Henry "Hank" Krehel was inactive, has scored 471 points on 193 field goals and 85 free throws. These are both league highs. Stetler is averaging 25 points a game.

Second position is manned by Krehel, West End forward. Krehel has scored 179 times from the floor and converted 80 foul shots. Both Stetler and Krehel have participated in 19 games.

Jim Frailey of Gray's Chevrolet is third with 313 points and teammate Al Bartholomay is next with 311 points. Fifth place is held down by Jim "Cocky" Wilson, Williams' Pharmacy.

The best average in the loop is displayed by Ray Steele, currently in spring training with the Columbus Jets of the triple "A" International League. Stetler has second best average in the league.

These figures are unofficial due to the fact that the boxscore for the February 26 game between West End and Barrett has not been made public.

Eastburg Releases Baseball Schedule

Easton High First On Agenda

EAST Stroudsburg High School will play 10 baseball games this season, it was revealed yesterday by Lewis R. Hastie, faculty athletic manager at the N. Courtland St. school, as he made public the 1955 diamond schedule.

The schedule will consist of five games to be played at home and the same number on the road. Each of the home games will get underway at 4 p.m., Hastie announced.

East Stroudsburg will open the campaign on Tuesday, April 12, at home against Easton, and will close the season against Hellertown, a Lehigh-Northampton League foe, also at home.

The game with Easton is a non-league affair.

East Stroudsburg and Stroudsburg will clash in their annual diamond battle on Tuesday, April 26, at Gordon Giffels Field.

Hastie announced yesterday that East Stroudsburg hadn't made up its mind where it would play its home games this season, but a decision will be reached on this problem in the very near future.

A total of 33 baseball candidates, including such veterans as Bill Sommers, pitcher; Bill Pensyl, first base; Gene Plaza, third base; Bob "Red" Kupiszewski, outfielder, and others answered the first call for candidates issued by Coach Jack Kist this week.

Giardello Found Guilty

PHILADELPHIA, March 16 (AP)—Middleweight contender Joey Giardello tonight was found guilty on charges he assaulted a Philadelphia gasoline station attendant with a crutch during a row last October 29.

A Quarter Sessions Court jury of seven women and five men deliberated five and one-half hours before finding the number one contender for the 167-pound title guilty on all five counts of the four indictments brought against him.

Giardello had contended he took no part in the attack on the gasoline station attendant, Howard Short, 31. Short claimed the fighter hit him with a crutch Giardello was using at the time following a knee operation that temporarily halted his ring career.

The district attorney's office said Giardello faces a maximum sentence of eight years and a $3,500 fine. The minimum would be a period of probation.

Dodgers Slam Orioles, 18-8

VERO BEACH, Fla., March 16 (AP)—"Pee Wee" Reese, Brooklyn shortstop for 15 years, was at his position for the first time this year today as the Dodgers shellacked Baltimore, 18-8.

However, Reese made way for Don Zimmer after three innings when the Brooks piled up an 11-1 lead. Zimmer and Roy Campanella were the batting stars with three

Valdes, Jones, Varona Working Hard At Local Training Camp For Important Ring Struggles

COLUMBIA, N. J.—Three of the biggest names in boxing are currently working out at Harry's Farm, area training camp, before entering the ring in the near future.

Nino Valdes, the towering heavyweight who has put Cuba back on the fistie map, is currently doing plenty of road work and bag punching in an effort to get in tip-top condition for his coming fight with lightweight Archie Moore, in Las Vegas, Nev.

The Valdes-Moore bout, with the winner certain to receive a crack at heavyweight champ "Rocky" Marciano, is scheduled for an early May date.

Ralph "Tiger" Jones, the veteran middleweight who zoomed back to the heights with a recent victory over Sugar Ray Robinson, is currently working for a Monday, April 4 bout with Trenton's George Johnson.

The Jones-Johnson middleweight struggle will be held in St. Louis.

"Chico" Varona, welterweight champion of Cuba and one of the most willing mixers in the fistie business, is also preparing for a bout next month, probably Friday, April 8, although a foe hasn't been named to date. The rival puncher is expected to be named within a matter of days.

None of the trio has started any boxing drills as yet, but all three are expected to get this phase of their training underway next week.

Dykes Uses Quick Start To Earn Decision Over Gavilan

MIAMI, Fla., March 16 (AP)—Miami's Bobby Dykes outpointed Kid Gavilan of Cuba tonight in a furious 10-round fight that was televised throughout the nation from Miami Stadium.

Dykes, lanky ex-Texan who lost to Gavilan in this same ring three years ago, started fast tonight and clipped the Cuban with lashing rights and lefts to win the unanimous decision.

Gavilan, the former welterweight champion from Camaguey, Cuba, never threw his famous "bolo punch" one time and confined most of his activity to infighting.

Dykes, who weighed in at 161, scored the 10th victory of his ring career with sharp rights and lefts to Gavilan's head. The Cuban, weighing 152½, bobbed and weaved, pounding Dykes in the mid-section, tying him up and hammering at his ribs.

The crowd of 4,457 grouped around the outdoor arena gave Dykes rousing applause but the Cuban had his share of supporters.

Dykes appeared to be feeling out his opponent at the start but he opened up with left jabs and rights to Gavilan's head. Gavilan took Dykes' best punches and quickly used his ring skill to tie up the rangy Miamian and get in his most telling blows at short range.

There were no knockdowns but several times Dykes shook the "Kee" from Camaguey with looping rights to the head. Gavilan kept boring in while Dykes carried on the fight at long range.

Gavilan's left eye was puffed but he appeared to get stronger as the fight went along. The Cuban's best round was the eighth when he landed solid body blows to the midsection. In that round Gavilan slammed a sharp right to the chin to start the action and then pounded lefts and rights to the body. He cornered Dykes on the ropes and gave the Miamian a couple of solid swings before Dykes tied him up.

Gianis Edge Chicago, 5-3

PHOENIX, Ariz., March 16 (AP)—Monte Irvin's single with two out and the bases loaded in the seventh inning provided a winning three-run rally for the New York Giants today in their 5-3 exhibition victory over the Chicago Cubs.

Irvin paced a seven-hit Giant attack with three singles. He drove in three runs for the afternoon.

The Cubs also totaled seven hits, shortstop Ernie Banks leading the way with two doubles.

The U. S. baseball team virtually clinched the first round of the round robin tournament by whipping the Dutch West Indies, 12-7, the third straight victory for the Yanks.

In tennis, Art Larsen of San Leandro, Calif., and Edward Moylan of Trenton, N. J., advanced to the men's singles semifinals but the women's doubles team of Dennis Bradshaw and Jean Clark was eliminated.

NIT Enters Quarter-Final Round Tonight

NEW YORK, March 16 (AP)—The semifinals of the 18th annual National Invitation Basketball Tournament roll around tomorrow night with most of the crystal ball gazers picking Duquesne and Dayton to battle their way to the finals.

The 12-team tourney now is down to four clubs with Dayton meeting the possible Cinderella quint, St. Francis (Pa.) and Duquesne taking on Cincinnati in the nighttime of the twin bill at Madison Square Garden.

Dayton, with the best overall height in the tournament, is getting the vote of many experts to go all the way. The second seeded Flyers proved their class last night by rallying to trample St. Louis 97-81 after St. Francis upset Holy Cross, the defending champion, 68-61.

Possibly any favoritism toward Dayton stems from the fact that the Flyers now own a 13-game winning streak. Included are two late season victories over Cincinnati (80-69) and Duquesne (67-56).

Duquesne, top seeded and sparked by All-America Dick Rickerts and St. Green, gained the semifinals by defeating Louisville Monday, 74-66. On the same program Cincinnati outlasted Niagara 85-83 in double overtime. Cincinnati is seeded fourth, and the only break in the select circle came last night when third seeded Holy Cross was eliminated.

Mr. and Mrs. Brieze, residents of Weatherly, were procured for this meeting by Ed Judge, president of the Pocono Pines Archery Club, who will also be present at tomorrow's meeting.

The meeting is open to anyone interested in archery.

Feller Pitches Indians To Win

TUCSON, Ariz., March 16 (AP)—Bob Feller pitcher three scoreless innings today as the Cleveland Indians' "B" squad defeated the New York Giants, "B" squad, 6-4, before a crowd of 3,916.

Feller gave up only two singles in his first exhibition appearance this spring.

Poconos Risk Perfect Mark Against Lake Harmony

Third Place At Stake In First Battle

TWO POCONO Mountains League basketball games will be played today as a double-header on the Tobyhanna Township High court, in Pocono Pines.

The pair of contests will have an important bearing on the final standings of the second half race and may even decide the championship.

Most of the interest is crammed into the second contest which will pit the unbeaten Stroudsburg Poconos against once defeated Lake Harmony. This game is on the agenda for 8:30 p. m.

Stroudsburg, winner of the first half crown, has won all eight second half encounters and is currently leading the league. Lake Harmony is in second place with seven favorable verdicts and one of the unfavorable variety.

The lone Lake Harmony loss of the second half was inflicted by the Poconos, on the Stroudsburg High School court.

Tonight's opening contest will also feature a tight rivalry as Gray's Chevrolet and Williams' Pharmacy match abilities. This tilt is scheduled for 7:15 p. m. Gray's squad is currently in third place with five wins and four defeats, while fourth place Williams' Pharmacy is sporting a 4-4 mark.

Tuesday night's contest between Johnson's Diner and West End was postponed because the Chestnut Hill High court is no longer available to the latter club. The game may be played at Tannersville on Monday. If it isn't played Monday it will be cancelled since neither the Dinermen nor West End figures in any playoff situation.

Cronin Quiet On Williams

SARASOTA, Fla., March 16 (P)—Joe Cronin, general manager of the Boston Red Sox baseball team, said today that he had not talked to Ted Williams since Feb. 25 and that rumors the slugging outfielder had changed his mind about retiring "are all news to me."

Williams, one of the great hitters of modern times, retired after the 1954 season. He now is living at fishing camp in southern Florida.

Cronin said he had telephoned Williams in Miami shortly after his arrival here late in February and had heard nothing further from him since. He added that Williams had been mailed a contract along with the others on the Red Sox roster but the player had not returned it.

One of the big reasons for Wyoming Seminary's success was the presence of Bob Lupcho, former Greene-Dreher-Sterling High star, on the club. Bob scored in double figures most of the time, hitting a high of 29 against Pittston Township and Stevens Trade. The Newfoundland resident also made a big hit on defense as he held Ashley's Sokolosky to six points, and the latter constantly scored between 20 and 30 points a game during the season. Greene-Dreher's loss was obviously Wyoming's gain.

A correction is in order today. The Chestnut Hill High basketball team, winner of the Monroe County League championship, was honored with a dinner at the Effort Diner and not the West End Diner as related within these columns yesterday. Sorry for the boob. Retirement plans for D. L. Learn, Palmerton resident and chairman of the District II Pennsylvania Athletic Association Committee, are being heard again. The same story made the rounds last fall, but Learn decided to stick to his post.

Now the story is making the rounds that Learn will leave his chairmanship within a matter of weeks to take up a teaching position in Arizona or Los Angeles, where the climate is more favorable to his wife's ill health. Lehighman is having football troubles already, and the season hasn't even arrived. Bill Hough, who had just about won a regular berth at the end of last season, quit school recently and entered the Air Corps. It is also reported that Ronnie Moyer and Bob Hafford, who fit into advance plans, won't take up the grid sport next September.

Both East Stroudsburg and Stroudsburg High schools are to be congratulated on the manner in which they worked their baseball battle into the schedule for the coming campaign. Stroudsburg will have one game under its belt and East Stroudsburg will have played twice before the arch foes battle at Gordon Giffels Field. The fact that both teams will have played at least one game should make their 1955 diamond meeting of the two schools a better contest. Last year they clashed on opening day and it took a lot out of the contest.

This year the game was worked into the schedule without upsetting either of the league plans for the two schools, a problem that had been next to impossible to solve in the past. Stroudsburg plays six games at home and three on the road this season, while East Stroudsburg will appear at home five times and on foreign soil the same number of occasions.

Rochester Cager To Bring Many Honors To Local Clinic

BOB DAVIES, ONE OF THE most colorful and highly regarded individuals in the history of college and professional basketball, will direct the cage portion of the 12th annual Eastern Pennsylvania Scholastic Coaches Association Clinic to be held at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College this week of June 20.

Davies, a resident of Harrisburg, has had more honors heaped upon him in his collegiate and pro careers than any other player in basketball history. The six foot, one inch star is rated as one of the best "Little Men" in the game today. He has continually shared the national limelight—in the past the giants who have dominated the game the past few years.

The fair-haired Davies gained recognition as a star at Seton Hall, where he won All-American honors. At the close of his collegiate career, Bobby served a stretch in the U. S. Navy and sparked the Great Lakes Sailor team.

Davies first joined Rochester during the 1945-1946 season. The following year he was given the most valuable player award and was named to the National Basketball League All-Star team. In 1947-1948 he made the second All-Star team. The "Kangaroo Kid" continued his torrid pace in the 1948-1949 Basketball Association of America season.

The ace-player established a new record with 321 assists. He ranked seventh among the leading scorers and won a berth on the circuit's All-Star team. In 1949-1950 he kept the string intact as league writers and sportscasters continued to vote him to the select circle. Davies had a 15.2 average in the 1950-1951 campaign and 16.2 points per game in 1951-1952. Both years he again nailed down berths on the All-Star team. He registered more than 1,000 points in the 1952-1953 season.

In the 1953-1954 campaign Bobby had a 12.3 average and was fifth in the assist department with 222. The highlight of the season was his tremendous showing in the annual All-Star game. Bobby put life into the Western team in the first quarter, when he exploded for 10 points in 10 minutes of play. He flipped in a total of 18 points for the night as he held the crowd in near hysteria, particularly when his pass to George Mikan in the final two seconds, helped tie the score and send the game into overtime.

Davies is married and has two sons. His off-season talents include golf. He is considered one of the leading area golfers. Wife Mary also has shown golf excellence, being rated as a top-notch.

Davies, in the off-season, keeps active and is always in good physical shape. Last summer he sharpened his eye for the coming season by playing as a teammate of Bevo Francis, co-featuring with the Harlem Globetrotters in their summer tour.

Bob annually plays in some of the leading amateur golf tournaments at Shawnee-on-Delaware, one of the prize golf courses in the Pocono Mountains.

The National Basketball Association will lose one of its greatest campaigners when Davies quits the pro ranks to become head basketball coach at Gettysburg College at the beginning of the next collegiate year.

Davies, the youngest basketball personality to ever lead discussions at the local clinic, led Rochester into another post-season playoff this season and is currently hard at work winning new laurels.

Bears Defeat Hawley In Tournament

HONESDALE—Newfoundland's Bears opened the second annual Wayne Athletic Foundation Basketball Tournament with an 81-76 victory over the Hawley Athletics here on the Honesdale Catholic High School court on Tuesday night.

Featuring Ed Wysocky and Walt "Moose" Bjorn from East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, the Bears proved too strong for the A's, although Newfoundland had to withstand a torrid finish by the Hawley contingent.

Wysocky and Wade Keen led the winning attack with 31 and 21 counters respectively, while Bill "Lefty" Herring assisted with 15 counters.

Walt Bjorn, playing against his brother Ken for the second time this season, made the Newfoundland victory possible with a brilliant brand of rebounding.

The Bears led 16-13 at the end of the first period and went far out in front at halftime, 40-24, on the strength of a 24-11 showing in the second period.

Hawley began its futile, uphill fight with a 20-19 edge in the third period and then held a 33-32 advantage in the final round.

Father Dan Brown paced the Hawley scoring with 22 points, while Jim Gellatt was next in line with 20 counters.

Hawley enjoyed a 31-27 edge in field goals, but the Bears converted 27 of 41 free throws, while Hawley connected on 13 of 28 free throws.

Denny Sullivan, another ESSTC star, led the Waymart Lions to a 92-68 verdict over the Starucca Stars in the other half of Tuesday's doubleheader. Waymart and Newfoundland clash in the same tournament next Thursday.

Honesdale battles Pleasant Mount in one of the tournament games tonight, while Thompson and Simpson meet in the other half of the doubleheader.

Monroe County Softball League Names Three To Grievance Committee For Coming Season

SELECTION OF A grievance committee was the number one topic at last night's meeting of the Monroe County Softball League at the offices of The Daily Record.

The grievance committee will be composed of Harvey Possinger, Bill Frear and Leonard Halouse, all well known in local athletic circles. It was announced by Bruce Possinger, league president, after last night's meeting.

Members of the grievance committee will decide troublesome issues which come up from time to time during the course of the campaign.

Deadline for admission to the league has been extended to Tuesday, April 5. At the present time six teams are definitely ready to enter and there is a possibility of a seventh. The league would like to have eight.

The six teams ready to operate right now are Al Beseker's Diner, Jack's Market, Keiper's Laundry, Kulp's Foundry, Empire Box and Patterson-Kelley. IAM is the seventh possibility. The six certain entries were represented at last night's gathering.

Under discussion last night was a tree trimming task at Stroudsburg Playground and possibility of constructing a low fence on the same field. A meeting of the ground rules committee, at the playground, on Sunday, March 27, will decide these problems. The committee meeting is set for 1:30 p. m.

The league has been granted the right to use the East Stroudsburg Playground field this season.

Next meeting, also set for The Daily Record, is listed for April 5, at 7:30 p. m.

Team rosters, containing 16 players each, must be submitted to the league by Thursday, April 28. The season will definitely start on Monday, May 2.

Iowa, Colorado Quintets May Fill Roles Of NCAA Spoilers

KANSAS CITY, March 16 (P)—Colorado's Golden Buffaloes can be the relaxed "spoilers" of the National Collegiate Athletic Association basketball tournament Friday and Saturday nights.

Nobody seems to take much note of the Big Seven champions, who meet the nation's top-ranked team, San Francisco's Dons Friday night.

Iowa's Big Ten champions, on the other hand, are given a fair chance to spill defending champion LaSalle in Friday night's other semifinal.

The talk mainly, though, is a San Francisco vs LaSalle finale.

But Coach Bebe Lee's Colorado team, winner of 15 of its last 16 games, may surprise the capacity 10,000 at the Municipal Auditorium.

The Buffaloes' answer to San Francisco's 6-10 Bill Russell is slender Burdette Halderson, who will be spotting the Dons' elongated jumping jack three inches at 6-7.

Halderson is out as sensational a player under the boards as Russell, but he gets the job done and even has scored a shade better than Big Bill, 21.9 to 21.3 for the season.

Tom Carnella, well known figure in local sports, is coach of the Barbers.

The club's roster consist of Charley German, Ray Kaseman, Bill Pensyl, Bill Sommers, Dick Gray, Howard Smith and Randy Morris.

All youngsters of high school age interested in playing on this team are urged to attend tonight's gathering. The Bi-State League campaign doesn't open until the high school season closes.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6 and 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

PHILADELPHIA, March 16 (AP)—President James M. Symes told Pennsylvania Railroad's stockholders today "we are more optimistic going into 1955 than at any time in the past eight years."

And Symes, in the railroad's annual report for 1954, ticked off eight reasons why he looks for an improvement in the railroad's position in the months ahead. He listed them as:

A cut of $12,900,000 in the passenger deficit;

The improvement of passenger service through new trains;

The inauguration of "piggyback TruTrain" service for common carrier trucking lines;

The upturn in general business;

Reduction of the railroad's debt in 1954 by $2 million dollars;

The near-completion of the company's billion dollar improvement program;

St. Patrick's Life Reviewed By Speaker

THE STROUDSBURG Kiwanis Club observed St. Patrick's Day at its meeting in the Penn Stroud Hotel yesterday.

John J. Cowley, program chairman, introduced Rev. Paul Purcell, assistant pastor of St. Gabriel's Catholic Church, Hazleton, who spoke on the influence for good of St. Patrick.

The speaker traced the early life of St. Patrick, who after study advanced to a monk and then for 30 years engaged in mission work over a wide territory bringing his hearers into the fold of God.

He went to Ireland, then known as a pagan nation, where he succeeded in converting the people to God. No man was better known, other than Moses, the speaker said. Every Irishman should be proud of the faith of his mother country, he declared.

Ireland was a weak nation in the eyes of the world, but strong in the faith that St. Patrick implanted in them, Rev. Purcell said.

He spoke of the simplicity and patience of the Irish people and declared the war weary world is looking forward to that kind of life. However, he said there will be no peace in the world until the Prince of Peace is seated at the conference table.

President Dettlef A. Hansen welcomed back to the club Gilbert L. Smrz, Frank Stackhouse and George T. Robinson who had been vacationing in warmer climates, also J. Richard Altomose, who had been ill, illness of Rev. Ralph H. Feltham was announced.

Visitors welcomed were Charles Swanken, of Scranton, and Harry McCool, of Stroudsburg; also Kiwanian Bill Nixon, of the Allentown club.

Numa J. Snyder invited the members to take in the Stroudsburg High School band concert Friday night at the High School auditorium. Snyder and Robinson were in charge of the song period.

President Hansen said nine members of the club motored to Glenide last Thursday night when Don Engdahl, of Spokane, Wash., international president, paid his official visit to the state. There were more than 600 Kiwanians in attendance, Hansen said.

Supreme Court Appeals For Funds To Provide Exercise Room, Tape Recorder, Good Acoustics

By Arthur Edson
WASHINGTON, March 16 (AP)—A trim, vigorous Supreme Court is about to be heard from.

For the court has appealed to Congress for funds to put in:

1. An exercise room, complete with steam cabinet and lockers, in which the justices can flex their muscles;

2. An amplifying system so that not only spectators can hear what is said, but, what's more important, so the justices can hear each other, and

3. A tape recording gadget whereby, for the first time in history, a complete record can be made of what is said in the nation's highest court.

These facts came out in testimony, just released, given earlier by Justice Harold Burton at a closed hearing held by the House Appropriations Committee. The committee has agreed to the request—the improvement will cost $12,500—but the final decision is up to Congress.

Unfortunately, Burton didn't give any details as to which judicial physiques are in need of trimming.

Burton said ever since the court first moved into the building, complaints have been made about the acoustics. Recently the court has experimented with a loud speaker system, and this has been so successful the court would like to make it permanent.

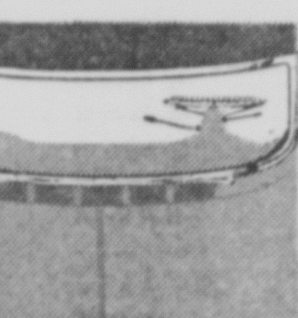

Without it, Burton said, "the judges can hear the lawyer, and the lawyer can hear the judges, but even the judges on the end of

There's even more to Chevrolet styling than meets the eye!

This is beauty with a bonus . . . for Chevrolet styling is designed to add safety and comfort while you drive, and to return greater value when you trade.

Truly modern lines are shaped by usefulness. You can see what we mean in the deep crystal curve of Chevrolet's Sweep-Sight windshield . . . a dramatic style note, certainly, but one that stems from the need for wider, safer vision. Or take high-set tailights—they add to the impressive length of line . . . but they are up where they can be seen for safety's sake.

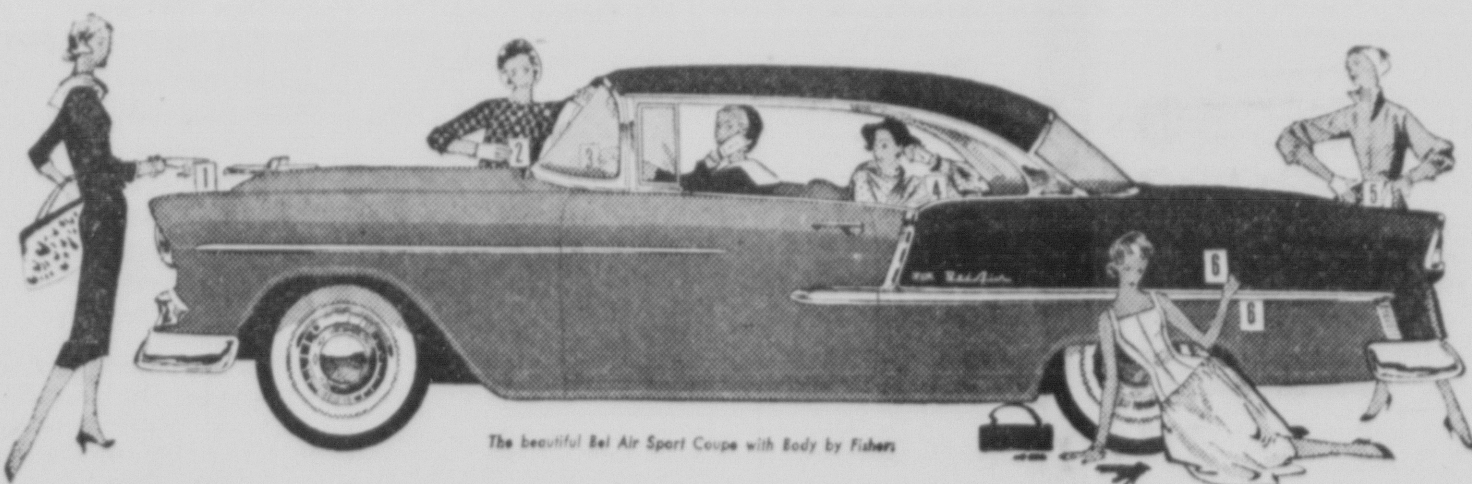

The smart louvers across the hood aren't just decoration . . . they mark the intake for the High-Level ventilation system for cleaner, fresher air. And the whole shape of the body—its lowness, the dipped belt line—is merely a reflection of a lowered center of gravity, the added stability.

This is truly functional styling that serves you better every mile, and preserves its value against the distant day when you trade. This is Body by Fisher—another Chevrolet exclusive in the low-price field. Come in and let us demonstrate that this new Chevrolet is just as exciting to drive as to look at!
